S. K. DEXTER DEAD

Prominent Business Man Passed Away Yesterday

Came to Lowell in 1850 and Was Connected With Local Business Interests Nearly Half a Century

Solomon K. Dexter, one of Lowell's best known and most successful business men, passed away yesterday afternoon at his home, 343 Wilder street, after a lingering illness. He was 67 years of age, and is survived by a widow, one son, Royal K. Dexter, two daughters, Mrs. Frederick L. Hatchett, and Mrs. Edwin T. Shaw, three sisters, Mrs. Philip Lyman of Hartford, Vt., Mrs. Susan Ward of Lowell, Mrs. Robert Richardson of East Orange, Vt., and three brothers, Martin Dexter of Topsham, Vt.; Rev. Lewis Dexter of West Topsham, and Evelyn L. Dexter of Birmingham, Ala.

Solomon King Dexter was born in Topsham, Vt., May 23, 1839. His father was Parker Dexter, and his mother, Betsey King, both of Pomfret, Vt. The Dexters date back to late settlers from England, the first record being at about the date 1756, when three brothers of that name landed in this country. Since that time the family name has been enrolled in various positions of honor and responsibility.

Mr. Dexter received his education in the public schools in his native place. At the age of 21 he came to Lowell and secured a position as a clerk in a provision market. In 1852 he became a member of the firm of Ladd & Dexter provision dealers. In 1853 he severed his connection with Mr. Ladd to become an army sutler, and for some time he was engaged in supplying stores to the army in the field. In 1855 he became cashier in the Bullion bank at Washington, D. C. In 1861 he removed to Waltham, Vt., and opened a regular country store, which he continued for three years. He was also postmaster at the same place for three years.

In 1865 he returned to Lowell, where he has since resided. He first engaged in the grocery and provision business, handling flour, grain and country produce, with a store in Stoddard's block. In 1875 he built the large brick building in Middlesex street which he since occupied for his rapidly growing commission merchant's business. He occupied the entire building which allowed him to handle an extensive stock and carry large lines in storage. He developed several creameries in Vermont and carried their products in Lowell.

Mr. Dexter was a republican and served in the common council in 1882-83, and in the legislature in 1886-87, serving on the committee on finance and library. He was a member of the Elliot Congregational church, Highland Lodge, O. O. P. Improved Order of Red Men, Lowell Rod and Gun club, Lowell Board of Trade, Board of Trade of the state of Vermont, the Highland club and had been a director of the Tradesmen's National bank since its organization, having taken a very active part in its affairs for many years.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

AMES AND DUNBAR EXCITING RUNAWAY

Met as Weekly as Two Little Lambs at Play

HOW AMES AND DUNBAR GOT TOGETHER YESTERDAY.

But Held Their Gory Daggers Ready as They Toured Their Homeward Way—An Omen Dread of What's to Happen on Some Future Day

Politicians who were on Merrimack street yesterday afternoon thought the boat had gotten in its work on them when they saw Colonel Butler Ames and Frank E. Dunbar romping along in the former's auto, each looking smugly in the countenance of the other like two young lovers instead of two strong political foes.

The pols rubbed their eyes and looked again, and then as they reassured themselves that they were not dreaming they bowed politely and disappeared, receding to return a most cordial salutation from both, as each candidate fondly concluded that the bow was for him and that somewhere concealed about the person of the one bowing was one little vote.

They came together at the outing of the Martin Luthers at Tyngsboro, yesterday, and while it is not usual to give publicity to the doings of that merry company the meeting was a feature that could not get by unnoticed.

They came together on the greenward like two mighty warriors of old. Ames shot a straight look at Dunbar while Frank warded it off and countered with another straight from the blindest. They advanced a step toward each other and then stopped.

The company stood with bated breath expecting momentarily the ominous words: "Hi! Me hated rival!"

But they didn't say it.

Instead they extended hands until each met in a cordial clasp.

"How do you do?" said the Col.

"How do you do?" said Mr. Dunbar.

"Do you ever?" asked the colonel.

"Sometimes," answered Mr. Dunbar.

Then they linked arms and waltz to the lemonade booth and a few who expected a catch-as-catch-can encounter were disappointed.

A short time later Col. Ames had to return to Lowell and about the same time

Mr. Dunbar had to leave. Col. Ames had his auto on the grounds while Mr. Dunbar's had not arrived.

"I'd be pleased to have you ride to town with me," said the colonel to his opponent.

"And I would be delighted to accompany you," returned Mr. Dunbar.

Then Col. Ames once more linked arms with his opponent and escorted him to the auto with all the grace of a debutante.

"I suppose the district committee has the power to fill vacancies on account of ineligibility, automobile accidents or the like," remarked an old-timer in the auto.

On the way down they talked most enthusiastically on the wild winds of the Merrimack, the gorges of the golden glow which shone from every farmyard, the peaceful picturesqueness of the driving village of North Chelmsford, the ruggedness of the town roads for automs, the distant curling smoke from the chimneys of the Dunbar corporation, the watchfulness of republican prosperity and in fact about every old object except the one nearest their hearts, that of the future in the Fifties.

When Mr. Dunbar's auto met them the rivals parted with another series of beautiful bows and as they started in different directions each glanced furtively behind and then their left hands sought their rear pockets to ascertain if their knives were still in place.

Those who noticed them riding together remarked that while each presented a smiling countenance he hid his gory political dagger truth, grasped it in his hand as if in readiness for instant encounter but the blades just met and pattered with all the meekness of little limbs at play but oh! to their meeting in the political arena another day!

And a Timely Catch by Car Conductor

A horse, belonging to Fred C. Church, the well known insurance man and a livery stable, was frightened while standing in front of the Central block about 11 o'clock this morning and dashed through the street, overturned a buggy belonging to John J. Gray, threw a boy out of the buggy, knocked a woman down and would have done considerable damage had not for an hour stop by Conductor Dorothy McCarthy of the Illinois line of the Boston & Northern street railway.

The exciting runaway attracted the attention of hundreds of people and as the horse dashed through Central street pedestrians scattered in every direction, running here and there, stepping into doorways and entering stores in order to escape injury.

The horse was standing in front of the Central building, its head being turned up the street. Thomas J. McNamara, Mr. Church's coachman, was standing by and as the flies were bothering the animal Mr. McNamara was brushing them off.

Without any warning the horse suddenly started and turned directly around across the street towards Buckley's livery stable and collided with a buggy belonging to John J. Gray, the taxicab operator. The buggy, which was top covered, was overturned and Arthur Hubert, twelve years of age and employed by Mr. Gray, was thrown out on to the sidewalk.

The Hubert boy escaped with a few scratches.

The Central building was destroyed by fire on July 10, 1906, and the fire was caused by lightning.

Thomas Duffy, aged about 15 years and residing at 16 Stanley street, a newsboy in Merrimack square, was run over by a carriage in the square shortly after noon today. Owing to the fact that the carriage was a light one the boy escaped serious injury.

Duffy was standing in front of the Central building when another newsboy ran up to him and stole two of his papers. The boy ran across the street and Duffy started after him. When in the middle of the street Duffy was struck by the front wheel of a passing carriage and thrown to the ground, both wheels passing over his abdomen.

The driver of the carriage without waiting to ascertain the extent of the boy's injuries, whipped his horse and started at a break neck speed down through East Merrimack street.

The boy was picked up by several bystanders and examined, but apart from being covered with dirt and badly frightened it was found that he had escaped injury.

CLERK DADIAN VETOED

Clerk Gerard P. Dadian has received a letter from the Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone Co. "Accepting the location for poles and conduits" which the company claims were granted at the meeting held on July 10 by the board of aldermen. The letter is self-explanatory and is nothing more or less than an attempt to show that the veto of the mayor and the action of the board of aldermen after the mayor's veto are invalid. The letter is as follows:

Dear Sirs: The Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone company at a meeting called for the purpose to sell the following wire:

Wire to accept the location for poles, wires, conduits, cables and manholes granted to Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone company by the board of aldermen of the City of Lowell by resolution passed by vote of said board of aldermen, July 10, 1906.

WILLIAM W. DUNCAN, Clerk of Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone company.

The board of engineers of the fire department will give a hearing to Wm. J. Tighe, formerly a call man on engine 6, Pawtucketville, tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, in the office of Chief Hosmer at the central fire station in Middle Street.

Callahan Tighe was discharged from the department on July 10 by Chief Hosmer, owing to numerous charges preferred against him, but removal was not made until the chief had looked into the matter and felt that for the good of the department, Mr. Tighe should be discharged.

Shortly after being discharged, Mr. Tighe appealed to the mayor, and, in accordance with the civil service rules, a man has a right to a hearing in order that the charges against him may be proven or disproven. Mr. Tighe asked for a hearing, and the chief has granted it. The hearing will be public.

Purchasing Agent Donnelly has called for bids on a car of baled hay for the fire department.

The Porter life saving nets, purchased by Purchasing Agent Donnelly, are still at the central fire station, while the other five nets ordered by the

Mystery About Death of Woman

SHE WAS PISTOL EXPERT

Husband Found Body Beside Trunk

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Elizabeth Ford, wife of Captain William G. Ford, of the 1st division of naval militia, was shot and probably killed in the 1st floor of her apartment in the Hotel New Yorker, 42 West 44th street, at 12:30 A.M. Her husband is believed to be the killer. The body was found in the room of the deceased, Captain Ford, who was found lying on the floor beside a trunk. The trunk was found in the right temple and had passed by a bullet from a pistol held in her own hand.

The body was found in the Ford home in the 1st floor apartment at Prospect Park West and Sixth street. Captain and Mrs. Ford are pronounced with mysterious circumstances being almost identical with the family version of the theater of Marshall Field, Jr., in Chicago last fall.

If it were evident the motive is lacking so far as the authorities have been able to learn. If it were an accident it was remarkable.

Mr. Ford's relatives and friends insist it must have been an accident. The police and the coroner are doubtful and an inquest will be held today to determine the cause.

In the meantime, due to news from the Fifth avenue station, Brocklyn, we are investigating.

Miss and Mrs. Ford were preparing to leave last night upon their vacation in the Adirondacks, where they have been together for a few weeks almost every summer. The trunks were all box closed. Two loaded revolvers remained on the shelf.

Ford went to the basement for a pair of rubber boots. The maid was in the kitchen. Mrs. Ford was alone in the back parlor.

There was a shot. The maid ran from the kitchen and one the door behind the trunk she had just completed packing. Mrs. Ford was mortally wounded, one of the revolvers beside her, the other still on the shelf.

The maid ran screaming into the corridor and met others of the tenants of the building who had heard the pistol report.

Ford came consciousness up the stairs. He had not heard the shot.

As he stepped before the door of his apartment, he caught sight of his wife upon the floor. He found she was still breathing, but she did not recognize him.

Dr. James McEvitt of Sixth Street and Eighth avenue was summoned. He sent for his brother, Dr. John C. McEvitt, surgeon in the second naval battalion. Both did all in their power to bring her to consciousness, but she died three hours later without having spoken.

Only a few minutes before Mrs. Ford was looking and laughing with her neighbors about the good times she expected to have.

The neighbors say Mr. and Mrs. Ford were a devoted couple. They knew of no quarrels and of no differences. She always was well provided for and wanted nothing within reason. She was young and beautiful. Worthy, according to those who knew her, seemed to be foreign to her.

The tragedy recalls the repetition from the Brooklyn Engineers' Club several years ago of Major John W. Tumbidge, son of Captain William Tumbidge, of the Hotel St. George, at the time an officer on the staff of Brigadier General James Mclver, who was bitterly opposed to membership by Lieutenant Ford.

Major Tumbidge and Ford's enmity was the result of his having been put out of the Hotel St. George, when he took his wife to a room after testifying only under his own name, not indicating that his wife was to occupy the room with him.

Mrs. Ford was an expert with the shotgun, the rifle and the revolver. Some years ago, when she lived in Pohain, she found a burglar in the house. She seized a shotgun and pursued him, but he escaped.

ENGLISH COURT

TUNNY POSITION OF RELIGIOUS TEACHING IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, Aug. 9.—A decision given by the court of appeals yesterday leaves the question of religious education in Great Britain in a peculiar position.

The Education Act of 1902 was intended to compel local authorities to pay for religious instruction in the voluntary schools, and for the notorious "passive resistance" movement, under which number of nonconformists refused to pay the taxes levied to cover this expenditure for church schools. The Education Bill, however, made no provision in parliament for this.

The county council of the West Riding, of Yorkshire, refused to pay teacher for the time devoted by them to religious instruction. The board of education then appealed to the courts and the court of appeals decided in favor of the Yorkshire council.

If this decision should be upheld by the house of lords, whether the case now will be carried, will probably account for a legal stroke what the bill of Augustus Borelli, president of the board of education, aims at. Furthermore, it may enable a large number of "passive resisters" to bring action for false imprisonment.

The whole trouble appears to be due to the careless drafting of the bill of 1902.

FOR FINAL TEST

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The battleship Rhode Island, one of the newest and biggest of the navy, sailed from this port early toay for a final test before her acceptance by the government. A trial board of naval officers will conduct the trial. The Rhode Island passed out by quarantine station shortly after 10 o'clock. The Rhode Island already has passed her builders trial with a speed record of 1905 knots.

Conscience Forced Man to Confess

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 9.—Bishop of the church where he was reared, the Rev. W. H. Ford, of West Haven, and A. T. Hart, Army Chaplain, came to the aid of the soldier who had been accused of the killing of his wife. When he was brought to the office of the state's attorney, he was asked to confess to the killing of his wife, but he refused to do so.

He said he had been compelled to confess to the killing of his wife because he was afraid he would be sent to prison if he did not do so.

ACCUSES FIREMAN

Charges Preferred Against Member of Engine 5

William A. Dolan, Lieutenant of Hose 11, has been appointed captain of that company to succeed Joseph J. Jennings, the chairman of the police department, who was formerly captain of the company. Mr. Dolan's place as lieutenant is being filled by Edward Jennings, a brother of Joseph Jennings. Both men have been in the fire department for a number of years and were successful in passing the civil service examination recently.

J. D. Finnegan of the 11th has been transferred to Hose 11 and J. J. Gormess has been appointed to the 11th.

Callinan, William J. L. of Lincoln, and Pawtucket, will be given a hearing before the board of commissioners who voted to accept the resignation of the 5th. The 5th, however, was not received by the board, as it was decided to create a new department and placed to the 11th. The 11th, however, has not been given a hearing.

Both men have been in the fire department for a number of years and were successful in passing the civil service examination recently.

STREET RAILWAY

Asked to Stand Part Cost of Macadamizing Fletcher St.

Mayor Casey has made a demand on the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. to pay a proportionate share of the macadamizing that is to be done between Broadway and Pawtucket streets. Mayor Casey and Supervisor Thomas Lee of the local street railway were in conference for quite a time this morning, but no agreement was reached. Another conference is scheduled for the near future.

Fletcher street, between Broadway and Pawtucket streets has been in a bad condition for many years, while that portion of the street between White and the Fletcher street bridge has been nothing more or less than a mud hole. Many attempts to remedy the evil have been made but without results and Mayor Casey claims that since the railroad company has had its tracks laid in worse condition.

A short time ago the street committee recommended the borrowing of $15,000 for the macadamizing of portions of five streets, one of the streets being Fletcher, and the city engineer estimated that it would cost $10,000 to macadamize that street from Broadway to Pawtucket. The crowd of spectators attending the celebration in the early morning of the third anniversary of Fletcher street, were asked to do what they could towards fixing up the street until the street railway company could come to some arrangement to pay its proportionate part of the cost.

This morning Mayor Casey and Supervisor Thomas Lee took the matter over in the mayor's office and the mayor stated that the resolution granting the bill of rights in regard to the resolution of the street department, that the company should leave the street in as good condition as it was found. The mayor claims that the portion of the street between the white and Pawtucket bridge, either side has been broken up, but that the street has been left in poor condition.

Supervisor Lee stated he would talk the matter over with other city officials and meet the mayor at a later date.

WILL BE NO FAIR ROBERT WELSH

Middlesex No. Society Takes Action

At a meeting of the trustees of the Middlesex North Agricultural society held at the New American house today it was voted not to hold a fair this fall because of the fact that they have not been made to pay.

The meeting was preliminary to the regular fall meeting of the members which will be held in October. There were 40 present at today's meeting.

The fair grounds are still for sale and no definite action relative to the sale of the grounds was taken today. Three proposals have been received and they will be considered at a later meeting.

CHILD WAS LOST

Report That Girl Was Drowned

There was great consternation along the banks of the Suffolk street canal at the noon hour today. Report had it that a little Greek girl had fallen from a window into the canal and had drowned. Men and boys with poles and ropes were quickly on the scene, but the little girl did not show on the surface of the canal. After the crowd had decided that the little girl was on the bottom of the canal, the little girl strolled into the house from which it was believed she had been drowned. She had been lost and had just found her way home.

PRICE TOO HIGH FOR LAND FOR A NEW FIRE HOUSE

There has been considerable talk about the land at 25 cents a foot offered to the city by ex-Alderman John H. Beauclerc for the erection of a fire house in West Centralville.

James Burns, who owns about 5000 feet of land at the corner of Bunker Hill and Higley streets, near the Beauclerc land, offers his land to the city for 15 cents per foot, and many think that is high. The city paid 11 cents per foot for the land on which the Elm street school is built.

PLAYED FINE BALL

Lowell Played Great Game Yesterday

Cobb Was the All Around Star and Showed Up Finely on the Slab — Burns Gave Good Exhibition

The first New England league game was played in Lowell for several days ago at Spalding park yesterday afternoon. Lowell having as its opponent the fast Lawrence team. This was a jolly day and there was quite a gathering of the fast sex. The "kids" were also in evidence, there being about 50 or 100 on the first base bleachers and they shouted themselves hoarse in order to assist Lowell in winning the game. The attendance was about 500. Umpire Hastings called the game at 3 o'clock.

FIRST INNING.

The visitors scored one in the first inning while Lowell failed to send a man across the plate. Wilson, the first man up, hit safely to left field, Spangler sent a grounder to Cobb and was retired at first. Page hit safely to left field and Wilson went down to third. Billit hit to right field, scoring Wilson. Billit then stole second. Briggs struck out. Murphy got a free pass and Fulmer went out. Burns to first.

Shannon died out to Spangler, who made a pretty running catch. Burns died out to Billit and Fitzmaurice was third out. Murphy to Fulmer. Score—Lawrence 1, Lowell 0.

SECOND INNING.

Neither side scored in the second inning. Cote hit to Cobb and was out at first. Leith sent a grounder to O'Neil and was retired. Wilson struck out.

Burrill sent a grounder to Murphy and was thrown out at first. Lake hit safely to left field, Sullivan struck out, and Lake was third out, while trying to steal second base. Cote catching him napping.

THIRD INNING.

Lawrence got a man as far as first in the third inning, but he died there. Spangler opened up with a 35 to Fitzmaurice. Page fanned the wind and was second out. Billit hit between first and second for a single but Briggs died out to Fitzmaurice.

Lowell failed to break the ice in the third inning. Pickett sent a grounder along the first base line and was put out by Fulmer. O'Neil drew his base on balls, but his anxiety to reach second caused his downfall. Cote nailing him. Cobb was third out on a fly to Billit.

FOURTH INNING.

Lawrence added another tally in the fourth inning. Murphy hit over Shannon's head for a safe one. Fulmer attempted to sacrifice and Lake fielded the ball, but threw bad to first and Fulmer went to second while Murphy reached third. Cote hit to Shannon and was retired at the initial bag. Leith hit to Burns and was retired at first but Murphy scored on the put out. Wilson drew his base on balls and attempted to steal second. While Wilson was trying to get to second Fulmer started from third for home. The ball was sent home and Fulmer started back to third, but he was halted before reaching the base.

Lowell again failed to score in the latter half of the fourth. Shannon died out to Wilson. Burns singled to right field. Fitzmaurice went out. Murphy to Fulmer and Burrill died. Wilson to Fulmer.

FIFTH INNING.

Sullivan made a sensational one hand catch of Spangler's fly to left field in the fifth inning. Page bunted and sent the ball down to first. He then stole second. Billit died out to Burns. Page was hit by Briggs' grounder and was out.

Cobb, who has been playing third base for the local team, but who was put on the slab today, started the crowd howling in the latter half of the fifth inning when he sent the ball to centre field for a two bagger and scored three runs, placing the local team one ahead of the visitors. Lake, the first man up, hit a Texas leaguer to left field. Sullivan struck out. Pickett hit between the pitcher and shortstop for a safe one and O'Neil was given a free pass, filling the bases. Cobb then came to the bat and the crowd shouted for him to make a hit and score two of the men on base, but he did more than that. When he got a good ball he stepped at it and sent it into deep centre field for two bases and Lake, Pickett and O'Neil scored. Shannon hit a line drive to Leith who caught it and the latter sent the ball to second for a double.

Score—Lawrence 3, Lowell 2.

SIXTH INNING.

The visitors were out in quick order in the sixth. Murphy died out to Cobb. Fulmer hit to Shannon and was retired at first, while Cote hit to Burns and was out at first.

In the latter half of the inning Burns hit along the third base line and was safe at first. Fitzmaurice attempted to sacrifice and Fulmer sent the ball to second, getting Burns, but the batter was safe. Fitz then tried to steal second but was thrown out. Burrill hit to Wilson and was out at first.

For Better City Government

IF OUR CITY IS TO PROSPER WE MUST HAVE A MORE REPRESENTATIVE CITY COUNCIL. WE MUST HAVE AS A RULE MEN OF HIGHER CALIBRE. ESPECIALLY IN THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN IS AN IMPROVEMENT NECESSARY. WHILE THERE ARE A FEW VERY GOOD MEN, THE BOARD AS A WHOLE IS NOT UP TO THE STANDARDS REQUIRED FOR SOUND, SAFE AND ECONOMIC GOVERNMENT. THE SAME MAY BE SAID OF THE COMMON COUNCIL. ALTHOUGH WE HAVE OFTEN HAD VERY MUCH WORSE MATERIAL THERE THAN AT PRESENT, WE SHOULD CONTINUE THE UPWARD TENDENCY IN THE LOWER BOARD AND REVERSE THE DOWNWARD TENDENCY IN THE UPPER IF WE ARE TO RETAIN BOTH BOARDS IN THEIR PRESENT FORM. AN IMPROVEMENT IN OUR MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT IS IMPERATIVE IF WE ARE TO HAVE A LOWER TAX RATE AND STEADY PROSPERITY.

When a man impersonates an officer he must expect one of two things, either he will be resisted as an officer or pounced upon as an imposter. As was the case with William Ferron who was arrested by two Greeks whom he attempted to intimidate. It served him right.

DEPENDS UPON DEMOCRATS.

The New York republicans seem dependent upon what the democrats will do, before deciding upon a candidate for governor. If the democrats nominate a strong man, the republicans will nominate Mr. Hughes. If the democrats split or nominate a weak candidate, the Platt-McDowell people will put up one of their "yellow dogs." The responsibility, therefore, is on the shoulders of the democrats for decent nominations by both parties and no doubt they will be equal to the occasion.

OUR LOYAL SUBJECTS BREAK OUT AGAIN.

The Piliñanes and the Igorrotes have broken out and the former, having placed the military under the municipal buildings of the town of Abucay, killed the ex-president of the town, two former members of the congressional and three policemen. This is not the first outbreak of this people, although they have been regarded as loyal subjects in the Philippines. The Igorrotes, about the same time, ambushed a party of Americans shooting the rapids on a river in Laoag. They also belong to the great masses of our loyal subjects in the Philippines.

THE ISSUES THAT WILL SUCCEED.

Josiah Quincy points out that the next national campaign and the intervening congressional campaigns to be successful must be conducted upon the tariff issue which is the only issue that brought democratic success in the last quarter of a century. The division upon this question in the republican party is deep seated. The democracy must take advantage of that division and turn it to defeat. Mr. Quincy is usually one of the most reliable authorities upon party issues and tactical policies. He can point the path to victory but the great thing is to lead the party along that path. With Mr. Bryan as the standard bearer in 1908 the democratic party can achieve a sweeping victory. With his additional experience gained on his tour of the world, Mr. Bryan as a political orator will be more interesting than ever.

COST OF LIVING AND TARIFFE.

The whole tariff issue turns on whether the people of the United States will decide to continue paying high prices for all they buy, and continue to add to the enormous profits of the protected trusts. There can be no dispute that the cost of living has increased 4 per cent since the present tariff law was enacted. Every housekeeper knows this is true from personal experience. It does not require Dun's Index figures to verify this large increase in price. It is also now acknowledged by the republican leaders that the trusts sell their products cheaper abroad than to our own people. It is equally certain that wages and incomes of the workingmen, small tradesmen, clerks and wage earners generally have not increased in like proportion to the increased cost of living, for, whereas it now takes $1.00 to buy what cost $1.00 in 1897, incomes have only increased on the average 11 per cent, so that if a wage earner was getting, in 1897, $15 a week, he now gets $17.10, if he has received the average increase. The increased cost of what he buys is nearly half as much again, not including rent. How much rent has increased can be settled by each individual for himself. In most of the large cities rents have fully kept pace with the increased cost of living, and the cost of building materials has followed the general trend of prices. In some small cities and in villages, rents have not increased in the same proportion, but wages there have also not increased as much.

The voters of the United States in each congressional district will have to decide when they vote next fall, which party best represents their interests. The republicans stand pat and will not revise the tariff in any particular. They point to trust high prices as an evidence of the prosperity the tariff has produced and they keep discreetly silent about the much less increase of salaries and wages. The democrats are pledged to revise the tariff by greatly reducing the excessive rates that now shelter the trusts. That would result in a reduction of high trust prices, because if the trusts did not reduce prices, imports of foreign goods would come in and compete with the products of the trusts. The reduction in the cost of living would virtually be an increase of salaries and wages, because the money earned would buy more, or it would take less money to provide for the necessities of a family or a person.

The wise voter, who investigates the tariff issue, unless he is one of the protected class, is certain to decide that the democratic policy is best for his pocketbook.

That brief but vivid lung, with escutcheon accompaniment, delivered by George Simmons to Anna Irene Sherman of Fall River, while the couple were buggy riding, was a very dear snuff and an expensive skech. Anna said it was worth $5.00 and while George allowed it was the real thing he snuffed his toe when the price was named. Men with money should beware. Let the poor fellow do the kissing.

At least two fishermen who fish at Lakeview, R. I. are said are using snakes instead of worms for fly bait. The snake bait costs anywhere from 25 to 40 cents a piece. They were using that kind of bait the other night when they hooked a mackerel with a hook and toggle like a bulldog and the body of a fish and fins and all. Although scientists have known that such an animal existed they did not know it required snake bait to catch it.

Although France has witnessed 25 years of republic, preceded by 22 years of bloodied monarchy, there has lingered or until very recently the last item on the civil list of the last king of France, Charles X. In 1826 Charles granted a pension of $50 a year to one of his men-servants. And year in and year out ever since, whatever system might be up or down, the good fellow has regularly presented himself on pension day to draw his money, and just as regularly many succeeding finance ministers has had it ready for him. The old worthy has just died, a centenarian.

Inspector Charlie Laffamme has a crowing hen. The hen is a Plymouth Rock, but seems to look every modest Puritanical instinct. She crows in the moon and night at the times when the mill whistles sound. Charlie had only one rooster, a neighbor's dog killed him. Charlie was surprised to hear crowing in his hen house recently and investigating found the Plymouth Rock hen enacting "cock-a-doodle-doo" in the boldest and most rooster-like manner. A Boston young woman who heard of Charlie's crowing hen, said to him: "Just as there is the 'new hen,' so, perhaps, there is a 'new hen'?"

"But this crowing hen is the oldest, toughest hen in the bunch," said Charlie, "but I like her because she hatched out some kittens about a month ago."

"Kittens," said Miss Weston, "now absurd."

"Well, she didn't hatch them out," said Charlie apologetically, "she just sat upon them and kept them warm while their real mother was looking about for something to eat."

It is said that we poor humans dream more in the summer than in the winter. Hot nights are productive of dreams; some of which are as horrible as the buzz of the Jersey mosquito. Three police court reporters were relating their dreams of the night before, one fellow dreamed that he was on a terrible railroad track where the tracks were lined with the bones of the dead. He was indicted and was being taken to the hospital in an automobile when the thing went wrong and killed the chauffeur. The reporter woke up just as the machine was about to plunge over a high embankment. Another reporter dreamed that he had suffered the loss of both legs and was crawling about the street selling shoe lace and pencils.

"That's dreamin' some," said the third reporter, "but I had a dream last night that beats you fellows several miles. I dreamed that Prohibition officer Slattery had been granted a Royal license and I called at his saloon. The grand Edward was behind the bar dispensing the foamy with the same good natured smile that characterizes him in police court. And last but not least, the bar was filled with fellows that I knew were members of temperance societies. It was a terrible shock to me and when I asked Edward for a little brandy for my nerves he said he didn't sell any hard stuff."

Neither of the three reporters had eaten dinner before retiring.

400 MUTINEERS

Will be Tried by a Court Martial

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 10.—The healthiest symptoms of the situation are the efforts now being made at Moscow by the new party of Pacific regeneration, ex-tsarists, to secure the active cooperation of the moderate middle constitutional democrats and unite the progressive elements of society which do not believe in a violent revolution and defeat the candidates of the extremists of all parties at the coming elections. Should the negotiations be successful it is their intention to issue an appeal to the country asking for all who favor a peaceful solution of the political, economic and ethical problems to stick individual indifference, unity and compel the government to realize the aspirations for a constitutional regime and at the same time save the country from a violent revolution and anarchy. Later it is the intention to call a convention and it is the intention to call an active electoral campaign.

The first financial operation of the government since the dissolution of parliament is the mortization of the interior loan of $12,500,000 bearing 5.5 per cent. interest with a new issue bearing 3.6 per cent. interest.

The attacks on the lives of Vice Admiral Dobrovol'ski, former governor-general of Moscow, (May 6, when he was wounded by the explosion of a bomb) and of General Neupliet, commander of the Sebastopol fortress, damaged by a bomb explosion May 25) have now been traced to the " flying nightingale organization" of the social revolutionists. A. G. Miltchenko, who was involved in the conspiracy and who is a son of Gen. Miltchenko of St. Petersburg, a member of the military council, while loading a bomb had three of his fingers blown off and was otherwise terribly maimed.

About 40 of the Constantine mutineers will be tried by court martial.

The central prison board has sent out a circular writing to the warden of penitentiaries to be on their guard against a new revolutionary organization formed to release political prisoners with the aid of sympathetic keepers and guards.

Many jail deliveries are already attributed to the work of this organization.

Governor Zhivovoff of St. Petersburg has instructed the subordinate officials in the country to explain to the peasants that the emperor dissolved parliament only because the members wasted time in making inordinate demands, like their insistence on the granting of general amnesty which would turn loose robbers and murderers and the urging of the abolition of the death penalty even for a destroyer of the sacred person of the emperor.

The clothing men went to Maudsley Park for a battle-ground yesterday and Putnams scored a victory over the Lowell One Price outfit, a well played game Cole and Ginty did the battery work for the winners and their performance was quite creditable. They received good support from the rest of the team. John Murphy, 4th second base, filled his position in a manner that opened the eyes of the spectators. He covered all kinds of ground, while his work with the stick was the best over. The Maudsley brothers, John and George, were in the points for the defeated aggregation, and their work was a feature of the game.

The winners of the contest are considered as fast as any of the strong teams of the city, and a meeting between the Putns and other Polards or any of the other strong teams would be a good attraction. There is some talk of having two of these teams play at the groves and Butcher's plane next week.

TWO MEN KILLED

Racing Car Plunged Into a Farm Wagon

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Two chauffeurs were killed, two injured and two escaped unscathed when a new racing car plunged into a loaded farm wagon on Thompson avenue, near the Winfield crossing of the Long Island railroad in queens' borough last night. The car is said to have been traveling not less than fifty miles an hour.

The men killed are: William Waller, 23 years of age, and Harry Woodcock, both of New York.

The men injured are in St. John's hospital in Long Island city are Frederick Wrenburg, and William Brown, also of Manhattan. Wrenburg has contusions of the back and a sprain of the spine. Brown suffered lacerations and abrasions of the face and a badly sprained left wrist.

The names of the other two men were not obtained as they disappeared as soon as possible after the accident and no injuries had been caused for. The car was a new one which was taken out by Brown to try. It was in racing trim. The other five went alone to witness the test. There was no destination, the route being along the Thompson boulevard. It was close to midnight and there was not much chance of meeting vehicles. The farm wagon which was struck was bound toward Manhattan. It was being driven by Herman Friske of Manhattan and was loaded with general garden produce. The automobile was speeding toward Jamaica and those who saw it before the crash say that it was running at very high speed. Friske says the lead car, driving toward him and pulled well over him the machine kept straight toward him and he jumped. Apparently Brown saw the wagon just too late. He swerved and avoided running into the wagon but he took the feet from under one of them and then crashed into the heavy truck behind. The blow crushed the produce and overturned it scattering the produce over the ground. The horse that was hit was forcefully unchained. Woodcock and Waller were buried through the air and both landed on the loads and their skulls were crushed. Woodcock was dead when picked up. Waller was alive and an automobile party which came along and stopped for the wrecks, offered to take him to St. John's hospital. The car reached there in a few minutes but Waller was dead. Waller was married a few weeks ago. A few days after his marriage his wife mother died.

Harkins, Providence; Bishop Stang, Fall River; Mrs. Lake, Col. P. S. Quinn, River Point, R. I.; Hon. F. E. Fitzsimmons, Lonsdale, R. I.; Mr. Logue and Rev. Fr. Coffey, St. Louis.

A musical program, including numbers by the Providence cathedral sanctuary choir, was rendered. A big parade of delegates preceded the rally.

The parade was one of the finest seen in this city for some years. The right of way was given to Co. A of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union regiment of East Cambridge, which was formerly known as the Pioneer cadre corps.

The paraders looked fine in well fitting uniforms of white and green. They carried pikes. A Boston band of 25 pieces did escort duty.

Marching with the chief marshal, Mr. Dennehy, were Rev. Fr. Francis J. Butler, president of the Boston Colon; Rev. Michael J. Duddy, president of Cambridgeport; Rev. Dr. Shinn of Hartford and Rev. John Q. Kunkel of Andover, Pa.

Following them were carriages containing the national officers of the union and other distinguished men and women, and then the various societies from all parts of New England and the delegates from all parts of the country. Five bands were in line.

At yesterday's business session the reports of officers and delegates were made.

The first to report was Rev. Francis J. Butler, pastor of St. Leo's church, Dorchester, who, as president, reported that the Boston archdiocesan union had 42 societies, a net increase of 30, and a membership of 3300. Since the last national convention, he said, all the old debts of the union were paid off and there is a balance of $207 on hand.

The union recommended to the national union the holding of frequent meetings of its national board, and also that the national officers deal directly with the archdiocesan unions instead of local societies. The adoption of a board of deputies who give reports from individual societies, he said, proved beneficial and he felt that if the official reports of the national officers were delivered more promptly to the archdiocesan unions, much good would result.

Rev. William E. Foley, president of the Springfield, Mass., diocesan union, said that the adoption of the anti-slavery arms act by the Massachusetts legislature had wiped out the grand array of cadre societies, which were so well known at one time. When the act was moderated, he said, of PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 10.—Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin of Pittsburgh was re-elected president of the Catholic Total Abstinence union at the closing business session of the national convention late yesterday afternoon.

Bishop Canevin had expressed a desire to retire from the presidency but the earnest wish of the delegates persuaded him to reconsider, and he was re-elected.

Rev. Fr. J. J. Curran of Wilkesbarre, Pa., who has been secretary of the national union, and was favored as a successor of President Canevin when it was thought that the latter would retire, was elected first vice-president. Fr. Curran acquired a national reputation in assisting to bring about the arbitration of the great coal strike several years ago.

Rev. Fr. Austin J. O'Toole of this city was elected second vice-president; Mrs. Lenora L. Lake of St. Louis, third vice-president and J. Washington Logue of Pittsburgh, secretary.

About 1500 people attended the rally last evening in Infantry hall under the auspices of the union. The general sentiment of the addressers was the suppression of the drink evil and the best methods to secure this. The speakers urged thorough organization in all the societies.

Those who addressed the meeting were Bishop Canevin, Bishop Matthew

More About Head of Defunct Chicago Bank

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—In addition to bad paper was put through at noon when the paying teller was out at lunch. Then Herling would count his cage, take the money, and leave a bill of $100 on the hook. This is what happened on July 28. Herling admits that he took $100 from the paying teller's drawer, put the money in his pocket and put on the spool a six-shilling sum to pay to his "bank."

In the case of the money borrowed by Stensland from the bank, Herling said that Stensland had instructed him to make between $500 and $600 in forged notes, signed carefully with the names of prominent patrons of the bank. Also, at Stensland's direction, he cared for these notes and obtained interest on them from time to time, and was directed by Stensland to keep them carefully away from the eyes of the note teller. In order that notes should not be sent to the bank tellers, whose names had been forged, the authorities are sure of reposing implicit confidence in Herling's statement that he did not forge the names on certain notes and by implication admitting that Stensland did.

The actual securing of money on the forged notes was done by Herling, who was then paid by Stensland.

Herling's statement that he was a heavy drinker on the job is confirmed in accounts of the campaigns on the part of one old Stensland and some companion for $500 to win $60,000 on a certain horse. The animal won. There were many losses shown by the books.

A Large Touring Automobile Upset

TWO PERSONS MAY DIE

Machine Was Going at Great Speed

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—While pursued by James F. Smith, a mounted policeman, a large touring automobile was wrecked at the corner of Jerome and Euclid avenues, Bronx, early today. Severe, Mrs. Howard and Miss Evans, two occupants of the automobile are in Fordham hospital, the two former suffering with fractured skulls.

The automobile was bound south in Jerome avenue, going at a high rate of speed. Smith held the driver and when they did not stop started in pursuit at a gallop. He came up with the automobile in Bronxville avenue, where the machine swerved to the right, striking the policeman's revolver. The horse went over and at the same time the automobile struck the curb and turned turtle, spilling out the occupants. Elliott was the least injured of the occupants of the automobile and was arrested.

Just before the machine overturned, Elliott made a frantic effort to protect Miss Evans. Mrs. Howard who occupied the rear had leaned forward to clutch the seat in front. She was thrown from the side of the car. She struck the curb dragging, where she lay unconscious. Miss Evans fell forward on her shoulder.

Smith was thrown and rendered unconscious; Smith, Mrs. Howard and Miss Evans were hurried to the hospital where it was said that the recovery of the two former was doubtful. Miss Evans suffered more from shock, though her injuries may be more severe than at first reported.

LOWELL POLICE

Will Not be Used as Spotters Says Jennings

Chairman Joseph J. Jennings of the police board has expressed himself as decidedly opposed to the use by corporations of members of the Lowell police department as spotters and it is not likely that there will be a re-employment of Lowell policemen serving as spotters for the Boston & Northern street railway on any other road.

Mr. Jennings is now investigating the matter and today he gave on the following statement: "I am opposed to such action. My attention was first called to it by the newspaper reports. A few weeks ago Capt. Moffatt asked for leave of absence for five or six men, stating that they were wanted for special work on the Boston & Northern street railway. Not speaking for the board, but for myself alone, I told Mr. Moffatt that I had no objections to offer."

"I did not know at that time, however, that the men were to be used as spotters for the Boston & Northern railway. I did not stop to consider just what the special work might be, but it did not occur to me that it was for the purpose of gathering spotters evidence."

"In the first place I am opposed to spotters evidence for the reason that the accused are too often done an injustice. Take for instance a car conductor who might make a mistake of say 25 or 50 cents. If he was being watched by a spotter the mistake would be set down as a felony."

"This sentiment, however, is not the foundation for my objection of the matter in question. I am opposed to the use of our police as spotters by corporations to be used out of town, because they were not appointed for that purpose. Their duties lie in Lowell. I started an inquiry as soon as my attention was called to it in the press. At the Boston & Northern or any other company or corporation want spotters they should apply to meadow where business it is to supply men for that purpose. When any such request is made again it will go before the full board and it will be thoroughly sifted before action is taken."

ALIMONY ACTION

PSALMIST IS QUOTED IN THE COURT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Psalm XV was taken by Lawyer Wellington B. Dobbs as a text yesterday in supreme court in addressing Justice Giegerich on behalf of Mrs. Annie M. Shepherd, who is endeavoring to recover nearly ten years' arrears of alimony from Walter B. Shepherd, from whom she obtained a divorce Dec. 15, 1897.

"I have looked upon this judgment," said Mr. Dobbs, "as the judgment on this earth which most nearly approaches the 'Holy of Holies,' and I consider that the Psalmist has expressed in the most appropriate language who is entitled to come before it. He says:

"Lord, who shall abide in Thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in Thy holy hill?"

"He that walketh uprightly and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart."

"He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor."

"This defendant has not come into this court with clean hands; he has not walked uprightly and I ask that this motion be denied," the lawyer added.

The motion before Justice Giegerich was to vacate an attachment, and was made by Lawyer Herman E. Espen, counsel for Shepherd. He claimed a judgment of divorce, and that, therefore, an attachment could not lie upon it.

Lawyer Dobbs said that it was proved on the trial of the divorce suit that Shepherd was the father of two children of the woman named, and that he had since married her in Montclair, N. J.

"That marriage is illegal under the laws of this state," said Lawyer Dobbs, "and the defendant in contracting it as well as in disobeying the mandate of the court as to the alimony and allowance for the support of his child, was and is in flagrant and tumultuous contempt of this court."

Mr. Charles Atlas of the Bigelow Carpet Company has gone on a vacation. He will visit in Boston and Worcester.

THAW IS UPSET

On Account of the

Thomas Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Harry Thaw is up in arms over the news that a young woman named Lillian Thomas brought a suit against him for beating her and that the suit was compromised. Nothing else that has come up since the killing of Stanford White has had so much effect on him. He is particularly displeased to think that any one should believe that he settled the suit. Through his counsel, Clifford H. Hart, Harry Thaw is said this statement yesterday.

Mr. Thaw's attorney states that Mr. Thaw has made but one statement regarding the Blackmail case. The exact text of that statement, written on Aug. 1, is: "Today's papers allege that the so-called Thomas woman is dead. Possibly this is only another falsehood of the men of whom the unfortunate creature was a simple fool. Now they conceal the woman to conceal their tracks."

He makes the following additional statement: Some papers state that Mr. Garvan supposes that the suit was settled. No settlement out of court ever occurred or could occur of a perfumed suit against me."

He will say nothing more until the proper moment may come.

A number of persons were very much disturbed yesterday because Thaw got some food outside of the Tombs prison, neglecting the regular Tombs caterer.

It was said that Thaw had had an awful row with the Tombs caterer and wounded him. They denied it. He said he wanted a change of diet.

A friend of Florence Ziegfeld, husband of Anna Held, says that Ziegfeld told him in Paris a story about three chorus girls calling on White the day he was killed. White wasn't home, and one of them for a joke left word that Mrs. Harry Thaw had called. When White returned he got the message and wrote a note to Mrs. Thaw saying he was sorry he wasn't home and about sent a basket of flowers. Thaw got the flowers and the note, and according to the story, was so enraged that he had something to do with killing White.

Assistant District Attorney Garvan has heard nothing of the story. The young woman who is said to have left the Tombs company this fall. She has spoken of no as a very important witness.

MARY A. KENNEDY was in police court yesterday charged with drunkenness and because of the condition of her nerves she was sent to the common jail to get straightened out.

Mary told the court that she had a baby at home. She said the baby was about a year old. After she had been taken to the jail she was examined by a physician who advised that it would be best to bring Mary's baby to her. Owing to her condition as explained by the doctor, Mary was taken from the jail on probation and sent to the city farm.

In the day Probation Officer Slattery, whose duties are manifold, went to Mary's home for the baby. The little one was not there, and an older daughter explained that the baby was being cured for it by Godmother.

In company with the girl, who preferred to this information, Mr. Slattery went to the house of the baby's Godmother, and the latter refused to admit them. She said she would care for the baby, and she bolted and barred the doors and windows.

Mr. Slattery found Mary Kennedy's husband, and when he returned from work he got the child and took it to the farm.

ASSAULT CASE MAYOR'S VETO

In Which Jos. Chaput Was Fined

HE STRUCK HIS WIFE

Other Cases Disposed of in Court

Joseph Chaput and his wife, a young couple, made it up in the kitchen of his wife's home in Diane street avenue last Saturday evening, and it was a case of the real old-fashioned rough house, such as would make a Milwaukee Indian chant a war song.

Joseph and his young wife, Pamela, have not been living together for several months. In fact, Pamela said that Joseph has never contributed to her support.

Saturday evening, Pamela, made ready to entertain a few friends, and, in order to do the honors in grand style, she ordered two cases of beer. Joseph arrived shortly after the beer, helped himself to a seat and then settled on a bed in an adjoining room. Pamela had served her guests with beer and, feeling that it would be too bad to pass Joseph by, she treated him also, and the story of what took place after that, as told by her to police court today, was as follows:

"I wanted to have my supper, and I told him to leave the house."

"He said he was the boss and would stay as long as he wanted to."

"I told him I would put him out. He pushed me on the stove and was about to punch me when I grabbed his bottle and smashed him on the head. I broke the bottle on his head."

"Then he struck me twice in the eye and there's what happened," said Pamela, as she lifted a cover and disclosed a very badly disfigured captive. Pamela allowed she was a drinking woman and, in answer to the question "How much do you drink?" she replied:

"What I can get."

The story as told by Pamela was corroborated by her little brother, Joseph, his story differed somewhat materially from that told by Pamela. He said his wife came to his house and invited him to her home, but the reception was different from what he expected. "She treated me to beer four times, and she offered me another glass, but I refused. Then she almost hit me and struck me over the head with a bottle, and I struck her. I looked for my hat and she gave it to me."

Judge Pickman found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $15.

A bloodstained whip was an important factor in the case of alleged cruelty to a horse, heard in the police court today. The defendant was Napoleon Alter and John H. Billings, who conducts a livery stable business in Merrimack street, was the complainant. Lieutenant Bonham, who is recognized as a very capable prosecuting officer, appeared for the government and Dennis J. Murphy for the defendant.

Witnesses for the government said that the defendant hired the horse on Tuesday afternoon, that the horse was in good condition when he left the stable and that when he returned he was "warm to the point of foaming" and the whip was broken and blood stained. The whip, witnesses said, was in good condition when the ride was hit. Among the witnesses for the government was the veteran horseman, "Doc" Evans, who examined the horse shortly after his return to the stable.

He said the animal showed signs of abuse. Asked to explain he said there were whip wounds on his flanks from which the blood flowed. The whips he said were several inches long and about half an inch wide. He said they were genuine whip whips.

"You are a horse jockey, are you not?" asked Mr. Murphy.

"I am not," replied Doc, with considerable feeling. "I traded horses about 25 years ago and got stuck and I've never tried it since."

"You jockey more or less at Keyes and Hanson's auctions, do you not?" said Mr. Murphy.

"I do not."

"You attend the auctions, don't you?"

"Yes, and I think I've seen you there."

The court at this point adjourned "Doc" that it was not his privilege to make comment but simply to answer questions.

Asked if he thought it would be possible for the whip to be broken as it was providing it fell beneath the wheel and cracked and if such marks would appear on the horse if he fell and kicked in the shafts, Doc said, "The horse would not have received those wounds by kicking in the shafts unless he snapped the shafts into threads. I suspect the whip might be broken by being run over."

The defendant and his wife said that the horse was sick and fell down. They went to Lakewood and were gone about five hours but they did not return more than twenty minutes at Lakewood. The rest of the time they were on the road because of the fact that the horse was sick.

They said the whip was broken by falling under the wheel, but they did not a cause for the blood stains upon it. Judge Pickman found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15. He appealed and procured bail.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Bernard McNulty, jail 22 days, five first offenders were fined $2 each and two women well along in years were placed on probation. One of them was already on probation, but her age and condition appealed to the court and he decided to give her another trial.

THE JUVENILE SESSION.

A tiny boy, Charles F. Mowatt, was given over to the care of the state board. Four small boys charged with throwing stones at one William Blank were placed on probation.

Mrs. John Moynihan of Tilden street and Mrs. Julia A. Saunders will spend the next two weeks at Old Orchard.

James W. Craig underwent an operation for appendicitis at a Quincy Hospital Tuesday afternoon. The operation was successful, but the patient was rather feeble this morning.

AMES AND DUNBAR

RIOT AT FIGHT VETERAN DRIVER

Harry Lewis Struck a Low Blow

SAYERS WAS GIVEN DECISION

Stinger No Match for Spike Robson

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 10.—

Riotous scenes marked the ending of the battle between Maurice Sayers of Milwaukee and Harry Lewis of Philadelphia, when in the sixth round Lewis delivered a low blow and the Milwaukeean rolled in agony on the floor of the ring.

Hundreds of spectators leaped into the ring, followed by the police and a battle royal between authorities and the citizens ensued. No arrests were made, although the police escorted 25 or more men to the doors.

Referee Lynch delayed his decision until physicians examined Sayers and pronounced him injured. The fight was then given to the Wisconsin boy. Lewis had the better of the battle all the way and Sayers was nearly out when the foul blow was landed.

Lewis appeared much the cleverer boxer and repeatedly landed on the jaw, neck and face, but Sayers was more of the bulldog and showed staying qualities at the close of the third and fourth rounds. Sayers looked about all in and Harry had him going, but at the gong for the next round he was right there again.

Sayers landed very few clever blows and showed visibly the results of Lewis' whirling style of battle. Harry kept his head the better of the two and several times nearly took his man off his feet with punches that looked good for the money. The final blow landed to most of the crowd like a stomach punch well above the belt, but Sayers went down in great agony and after the examination by a physician the referee awarded the fight to Sayers calling the blow a foul.

STINGER IS STUNG.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—At the Washington Sporting club here last night Spike Robson toyed with Kid Stinger for the six-round limit. Stinger rushed the fighting all the way and landed frequently, but did little damage to the Englishman. Robson, when in a tight corner, did not attempt to block, but dodged the blows with his head. Robson jabbed Stinger constantly and when the bout ended the Kid's face resembled an inflated sausage meat.

Robson made no attempt to put his opponent away, but contented himself with giving an exhibition of clever jabbing and foot work. The English boy bore no marks of the contest when the final bell rang.

POLICE BARRED OUT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Again the police were barred from the ring of the Long Acra A. C. in West 29th street last night, when a series of seven boxing exhibitions was held for the members. While the latter were gathered for the show, three detectives in citizens' clothes attempted to get in. They were turned away from the door on the ground that they were not members of the organization.

The best boxing exhibition of the evening was a three-round bout between Robert Moore and Frank Sheehan, two of the best boxers belonging to the club. Sheehan scored two knockdowns during the mill.

In the other bouts James Moran had much the better of Joe Thomas, Jim O'Connell was better than Mike Sullivan, Joe Wager beat Willie Greene, Lou Sealer beat Jack Durane with a stomach punch. Rube McCarthy broke his hand in his bout with Ben Carter and Joe Bedel boxed a draw with Frank West.

ON THE ROCKS.

STEAMER WILLOW DALE MET WITH SLIGHT ACCIDENT.

The steamer Willow Dale, in making her last trip from Shady Glen to Willow Dale, Wednesday evening, struck on the rock line putting out from Jewett's point. The damage to the steamer was a hole in the port side of the bow that allowed the water to come in and extinguish the fires. The few passengers on board were a bit nervous, but the steamer reached her moorings at Willow Dale without further accident.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Ed. Geers, the veteran driver had a banner day in the ring at the third day's meeting of the grand circuit. Geers won these races, including the $1000 three-mile trot. The silent man captured no money in the blue ribbon event with Gold Maid favorite at $200 to the field. Geers also won the 240 pace with Ardelle, and the 200 trot with Easy Girl Hamilton. Both were favorites.

In the opening race a collision occurred on the first turn, due to Doris B. stepping into the gully of Daphne Direct. Allen, who drove Lord B. and Walker who was behind Daphne Direct, were thrown. Walker escaped unharmed, but Allen sustained three broken ribs and was badly bruised. Walker left in the 260 trot but neither horse nor driver was injured. The track was fast. CYCLE NOTES

General Paul, the world's champion, who has 300,000 cycle riders that have taken up the bicycling measure, has received a reward of a short distance race of 100 miles. He made his debut in that competition at the Varsity, Buffalo, this week. He is accidentally made good. He has had two fine trials and in one he succeeded in getting up 100 miles. The first attempt was against the kilometer record. Being start, held by Hotel Gage, in 103.28. Paul, by Hoffman, the champion succeeded in lowering the time to 98 seconds. The next trial was against "Major" Taylor, the kilometer record of 125. Paul made a good start but fell off the track. His time was 113.26.

At the same meet the two Pauls, General Paul, of France, and Martineau, of America, had a match race of 100 miles. The first heat was a ten minute pursuit and Durigon, of France, the second, and Hoffmann, in front, won out by 60 yards. The distance covered was 7 miles 329 yards. The second heat was at 100 kilometers. Lebouf, 125 miles, and again thanks to his superior pace, Durigon won, finishing three lap in front. Time 165.15.

John Shillington Prince, sometimes called the "Brahmin," and sometimes known by less complimentary terms, who seems to be the greatest impudent in the bicycle racing game, landed in Memphis, Tenn., last week, registered at the Peabody and had his beard in advance. Then he started around town, told some of the old time racing enthusiasts and informed his scheme. There is no record of Prince's ever having been without a scheme. Prince told the Memphisites of his racing success with the Atlanta sinner this year and then said if the memory of the stirring finished at the old Memphis track several years ago will be sufficient to bring out crowds he will build a track in the Tennessee city and form a southern circuit. At about the same time Gust Castle, the Atlanta dealer and promoter, was in Louisville, Ky., with somewhat the same plan.

A slender suit now being threshed in the Australian courts has considerable interest in it. Fletcher McFarland is indirectly concerned in it. Fletcher, James J. Gleeson, secretary of the League of Victoria, Wheaton, is suing D. Peter Smith for alleged slander and asks $500 damages. The plaintiff complains that at a meeting of the Australian Natives' association, held on May 27 last, Smith "falsely and maliciously" slandered himself, Gleeson, by saying, "The Eight Hours' Wheel Race was the dullest slant ever run in Australia." McFarland had every man in the field dead for him, and the secretary had everything arranged so that he could collect the prize money, and get away in the boat to America on the Wednesday after the race. The secretary of the league gave McFarland the prize-money, and got an order to receive the same from the eight hours people, and he received the money, and when the other competitors attended at the Tad's Hall to receive their shares, they found that the prize money had been paid over, and that McFarland had left for America.

HARBOR PIRATES INSURANCE CO. HE WENT INSANE

Attempted to Steal Sloop Yacht

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Harbor pirates and robbers armed with heavy cutters revolvers stood off Janitor Henry B. Lawson of the Jefferon Yacht club a short distance yesterday morning in their deliberate attempt to steal the sloop yacht Lucy, the property of George Wadsworth and Frank Wells, both prominent members of the East Boston club.

The story as told by Janitor Lawson is as follows:

"I was busily engaged about 2 o'clock yesterday morning in preparing to haul out one of the yachts for painting when I noticed someone was aboard the Lucy attempting to board her."

"Rowing out in tender, I asked those aboard what was up, and was halted with the reply that 'Charlie' had been to see me to bring the boat to Wadsworth."

"As I came near the yacht I was ordered to keep off, the men at the same time flourishing a revolver.

"Going back to the clubhouse I awoke one of the yacht owners, and with him again went to the yacht, which we found deserted.

"A hasty inspection showed conclusively that the men had made an attempt to gain an entrance into the yacht and had failed.

"Further search revealed the fact that the thieves had stolen a boat from the yards of Joseph McPhee, near Simpson's dry docks, which was later in the morning discovered near the Bay View station on the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad."

The attempted theft of the yacht, while marking the first of the season in Boston, is not, according to the police, the first boat that has been broken into and goods to the value of many dollars taken, with no definite clue as to the perpetrators.

Since the attempt to steal the Lucy yesterday morning officers have been especially detained from stations 7 and 12 to patrol the portions of the harbor where are situated the different yacht houses, their vigilance to be augmented by the use of the harbor patrol boat.

GOES TO EUROPE

CLERK MAKES TRIP ON TWO CENT STAMP.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Samuel Bryant, the American Express Company clerk, who cleared a profit of $20,000 by investing two cents in a stamp on a bill for some of the new United States Panama Canal bonds, sailed on the French liner La Gascoigne yesterday with Mrs. Byerley for a two month's vacation in Europe.

Mr. Byerley said it had been his ambition to go to Europe, but had never been able to get enough money together to make the trip. When the Panama bond issue was advertised he began figuring, and his experience as an accountant led him to believe that he could make a good turn by bidding on the bonds and then selling his option at a premium, which he did.

Mrs. Blanche Byerley, their daughter, and Maurice Lindo, a friend, saw Mr. and Mrs. Byerley off. Both Blanche and Mrs. Byerley's two daughters were left behind, the father declaring that he and his wife wanted to go directly to Trieste, the birthplace of Mr. Byerley's father, and then they will tour the continent.

JOCKEY MADDEN

WAS SHAKEN LIKE A RAT BY A HORSE.

BRIGHTON, Eng., Aug. 10.—Just prior to the decision in the race for the Worthing plate yesterday, Marigold IV, ridden by Jockey Brady, reared up and knocked Jockey Madden, who was riding Centre, out of the saddle and then went on his knees, got hold of Madden's throat and shook him like a rat, despite the efforts of Brady, who heltered the horse over the head. Eventually the horse was beaten off. Madden's throat was badly lacerated and he was bleeding freely when released.

"Danny" Maher, the American jockey, who was injured by the fall of his mount Aug. 7, starts for Douvaine, France, Aug. 11, and hopes to be able to ride there a few days later.

COCKRAN ILL

CONGRESSMAN IS NURSED BY HIS FIANCÉE.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 10.—Representative W. Bourke Cockran of New York is reported seriously ill at Lake Tahoe, Miss Annie Ide, whose engagement to Mr. Cockran was announced a few weeks ago, is with him and giving him every possible care. Miss Ide is a daughter of Gov. Gen. Ide of the Philippines.

Mr. Cockran became ill about the middle of December. He engaged rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York, where for 10 days he was threatened with pneumonia. He was advised by his physician that a pulmonary weakness threatened him and that several weeks spent in California would improve his health. He left New York on Dec. 27 and spent several weeks on an auto trip in Southern California. He left this state greatly invigorated and took up his duties in Congress.

AGED MAN

WILL DANCE A JIG AT HIS WEDDING.

NANTUCKET, Aug. 10.—George F. Luzzader of Whitman and Mrs. Lydia Caliger of Brockton, the aged lovers who have been spending their pre-nuptial honeymoon with the latter's sister at Nantucket, will leave the island tomorrow to complete arrangements for their wedding, which will be solemnized in Grand Army hall, Whitman, some time this month.

The aged couple are as happy and loving as any 20-year-old pair, and had a most enjoyable outing. They intend to make their wedding a notable event, and the groom, despite his 81 years, is planning to entertain his friends at a reception with an exhibition of buck and wing dancing, in which art he is still an adept.

It is nearly 60 years since Luzzader married his first wife, and he says he looks forward to the coming nuptials with just as much pleasure as he did three score years ago, when he was 20. His bride-elect, although 64 years old, is preparing a complete trousseau.

Has Suspended Business on Pacific Coast

Patient Jumped From Hospital Window

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 10.—In announcing that the New Hampshire Fire Insurance company has suspended business on the Pacific coast offices of the company gave out a statement today, saying that the suspension is due to the fact that the company desires to permit the unsettled conditions in San Francisco and the Pacific states generally to adjust themselves before the taking on of further liability.

"The company in the statement says, 'We are now awaiting from the state of California further information as to the possible results of legislation in California.'

"The company came out of the incorporation at San Francisco in probably better relative condition than any other company involved."

"Going back to the clubhouse I awoke one of the yacht owners, and with him again went to the yacht, which we found deserted.

"A hasty inspection showed conclusively that the men had made an attempt to gain an entrance into the yacht and had failed.

For Better City Government

IF OUR CITY IS TO PROSPER WE MUST HAVE A MORE REPRESENTATIVE CITY COUNCIL. WE MUST HAVE AS A RULE MEN OF HIGHER CALIBRE. ESPECIALLY IN THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN IS AN IMPROVEMENT NECESSARY. WHILE THERE ARE A FEW VERY GOOD MEN, THE BOARD AS A WHOLE IS NOT UP TO THE STANDARD REQUIRED FOR SOUND, SAFE AND ECONOMIC GOVERNMENT. THE SAME MAY BE SAID OF THE COMMON COUNCIL, ALTHOUGH WE HAVE OFTEN HAD VERY MUCH WORSE MATERIAL THERE THAN AT PRESENT. WE SHOULD CONTINUE THE UPWARD TENDENCY IN THE LOWER BOARD AND REVERSE THE DOWNWARD TENDENCY IN THE UPPER IF WE ARE TO RETAIN BOTH BOARDS IN THEIR PRESENT FORM. AN IMPROVEMENT IN OUR MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT IS IMPERATIVE IF WE ARE TO HAVE A LOWER TAX RATE AND STEADY PROSPERITY.

When a man impersonates an officer he must expect one of two things, either he will be resisted as an officer or pounced upon as an imposter as was the case with William Ferron who was arrested by two Greeks whom he attempted to intimidate. It served him right.

DEPENDS UPON DEMOCRATS.

The New York republicans seem dependent upon what the democrats will do before deciding upon a candidate for governor. If the democrats nominate a strong man, the republicans will nominate Mr. Hughes. If the democrats split or nominate a weak candidate, the Platt-Odell people will put up one of their "yellow dogs." The responsibility, therefore, is on the shoulders of the democrats for decent nominations by both parties and no doubt they will be equal to the occasion.

OUR LOYAL SUBJECTS BREAK OUT AGAIN.

The Pulajanes and the Igorotes have broken out and the former, having pierced the military cordon, burned the municipal buildings of the town of Albuoy, killed the ex-president of the town, two former members of the constabulary and three policemen. This is not the first outbreak of this people, although they have been regarded as loyal subjects in the Philippines. The Igorotes about the same time established a party of Americans shooting the rapids on a river in Luzon. They also belong to the great masses of our loyal subjects in the Philippines.

THE ISSUES THAT WILL SUCCEED.

Josiah Quincy points out that the next national campaign and the intervening congressional campaigns to be successful must be conducted upon the tariff issue which is the only issue that brought democratic success in the last quarter of a century. The division upon this question in the republican party is deep seated. The democracy must take advantage of that division and turn it to defeat. Mr. Quincy is usually one of the most reliable authorities upon party issues and tactical policies. He can point the path to victory but the great thing is to lead the party along that path. With Mr. Bryan as the standard bearer in 1908 the democratic party can achieve a sweeping victory. With his additional experience gained on his tour of the world, Mr. Bryan as a political orator will be more interesting than ever.

COST OF LIVING AND TARIFF.

The whole tariff issue turns on whether the people of the United States will decide to continue paying high prices for all they buy, and continue to add to the enormous profits of the protected trusts. There can be no dispute that the cost of living has increased 45 per cent. since the present tariff law was enacted. Every housekeeper knows this is true from personal experience. It does not require Dun's Index figures to verify this large increase in prices. It is also now acknowledged by the republican leaders that the trusts sell their products cheaper abroad than to our own people. It is equally certain that wages and incomes of the workingmen, small tradesmen, clerks and wage earners generally have not increased in like proportion to the increased cost of living, for, whereas it now takes $1.15 to buy what cost $1.00 in 1897, incomes have only increased on the average 14 per cent., so that if a wage earner was getting, in 1897, $15 a week, he now gets $17.10. If he has received the average increase. The increased cost of what he buys is nearly half as much again, not including rent. How much rent has increased can be settled by each individual for himself. In most of the large cities rents have fully kept pace with the increased cost of living, and the cost of building materials has followed the general trend of prices. In some small cities and in villages, rents have not increased in the same proportion, but wages there have also not increased as much.

The voters of the United States in each congressional district will have to decide, when they vote next fall, which party best represents their interests. The republicans stand pat and will not revise the tariff in any particular. They point to trust power as an evidence of the prosperity the tariff has produced and they keep discreetly silent about the much less increase of salaries and wages. The democrats are pledged to revise the tariff by greatly reducing the excessive rates that now shelter the trusts. That would result in a reduction of high trust prices, because if the trusts did not reduce prices, importations of foreign goods would come in and compete with the products of the trusts. The reduction in the cost of living would virtually be an increase of salaries and wages, because the money earned would buy more, or it would take less money to provide for the necessities of a family or a person.

The wise voter, who investigates the tariff issue, unless he is one of the protected class, is certain to decide that the democratic policy is best for his pocketbook.

That brief but vivid hug, with open hand, accompanied, delivered by George Simonds to Anna Irene Sherman of East River, while the couple were being ridden, was a very dear and an expensive shock. Anna said it was worth $500 and while George allowed it was the real thing he stabled his horse when the police was named. Men with money should beware. Let the poor follow the kiss.

At least two fishermen who fish at Lakeview, it is said, are using snakes instead of worms for live bait. The snake bait costs anywhere from 15 to 40 cents a pint. They were using that kind of bait the other night when they hooked a creature with a head and four legs like a bulldog and the body of a fish and the gills. Although scientists have known that such an animal existed they did not know it required snake bait to catch it.

Although France has witnessed 25 years of republic, preceded by 22 years of United monarchy, there has lingered on until very recently the last item on the civil list of the last king of France, Charles X. In 1830 Charles granted a pension of $50 a year to one of his men servants. And year in and year out ever since, whatever system might be up or down, the good fellow has regularly presented himself on pension day to draw his money, and just as regularly every succeeding finance minister had it ready for him. The old world has just died, a centenarian.

Inspector Charlie Luttemann has a crowing hen. The hen is a Plymouth Rock, but seems to lack every modest, Puritanical instinct. She crows morning, noon and night at the times when the mill whistles sound. Charlie had only one rooster; a neighbor's dog killed him. Charlie was surprised to hear crowing in his hen house recently and investigating found the Plymouth Rock hen emitting "cock-a-doodle-doo" in the boldest and most assertive manner. A Boston young woman who heard of Charlie's crowing hen, said to him: "Just as there is the new woman" so, perhaps, there is a new hen."

"But this crowing hen is the oldest, toughest hen in the bunch," said Charlie, "but I like her because she hatched out some kittens about a month ago."

"Kittens," said Miss Poston, "how absurd."

"Well, she didn't hatch them out," said Charlie apologetically. "She just sat upon them and kept them warm while their real mother was looking about for something to eat."

It is said that we poor humans dream more in the summer than in the winter. Hot nights are productive of dreams; some of which are as terrible as the buzz of the Jersey mosquito. Three police court reporters were relating their dreams of the night before. One fellow dreamed that he was in an terrible railroad wreck, where the tracks were lined with the bodies of the dead. He was injured and was being taken to the hospital in an automobile when the thing went wrong and killed the chauffeur. The reporter woke up just as the machine was about to plow over a high embankment. Another reporter dreamed that he had suffered the loss of both legs and was crawling about the streets using shoe laces and pencils.

"That's dreaming some," said the third reporter, "but I had a dream last night that beats you fellows several miles. I dreamed that Protection Officer Statton had been granted a Brier House and I called at his school. The general Edward was behind the bar dispensing the foamy with the same good natured smile that characterizes him in police court. And last but not least, the bar was lined with fellows that I know were members of Temperature society. It was a terrible shock to me and when I left I said to a little friend for my nerves to get a distill and lay hard stuff."

Neither of the three reporters had eaten dinner before retiring.

OPERA HOUSE

PRIMROSE'S MINSTRELS COMING TO LOWELL

George Primrose and his big minstrel company of comedians, vocalists, dancers and musicians will be the attraction at the Opera House, Tuesday evening, August 14, presenting genuine blackface minstrelsy and southern plantation surroundings.

It was Mr. Primrose's complaint for several years past that real minstrelsy was receiving too little attention in the so-called minstrel entertainments. For that reason, when he decided to exploit the real thing last season, his earnest and fondest desire was to have the biggest and best black face minstrel organization ever organized. The result has satisfied his most sanguine anticipations, and he again promises theatre-goers a minstrel performance that shall be replete with clever comedy, brilliant music, surprising and exhilarating specialties, and best of all, the old-time minstrel songs and darky characters. His work will cover the faces of all the performers. The big spectacular number of the entertainment is entitled "The Evolution of the Negro." It comes at the close of the performance and comprises six scenes, depicting a sugar plantation, old Kentucky Home, plantation and Darky Heaven.

Mr. George Primrose himself has just said to be the best in which he has ever appeared. He has two beauties of voices and in epithet, "Twilight in the Old Plantation." The best scene is a representation of a long cabin, "Way Down South in Dixie," where overhung drooping shadows of a spreading oak.

The other scene presented a fascinating view of a cotton field in bloom with hill and river environment, the whole reviewed at sunrise, sunset and nightfall, while the radiance of the moon bathes them in a soft, moonlight light. It is in this moonlight scene that Mr. Primrose will give a soft-slow dance, assisted by the Cotton Blossom Chorus. He will also have attention to his Silver Shower dog, assisted by a score or more of wooden slave danc-

Will be Tried by a Court Martial

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 10.—The healthiest symptoms of the situation are the efforts now being made at Moscow by the new party of Baltic regeneration ex-sabotists, to moderate the extreme moderation of the moderate mind of constitutional democrats and unite the progressive elements of society which do not believe in a violent revolution and defeat the candidates of the extremists of all parts at the coming elections. Should the negotiations be successful it is their intention to issue an appeal to the country asking for all who favor a peaceful solution of the political, economic and ethical problems to sink individual differences, unite and compel the government to realize the aspirations for a constitutional regime and at the same time save the country from a violent revolution and anarchy. Later it is intended to call a convention and begin an active electoral campaign.

The first financial operation of the government since the dissolution of parliament, is the mortization of the interior loan of $2,660,000 bearing 3.3 per cent. interest of a new issue bearing 3.5 per cent. interest.

LAWYERS' WAR

WAS ENDED BY A STREET KNOCK-OUT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Short-arm jabs, swings, upper cuts and corkscrew punches were the arguments used yesterday in a legal battle which took place on the sidewalk in front of the fourth district municipal court, at First street and Second avenue. The principals in the exhibition were Leopold W. Harburger, former alderman from the 8th district, and Matthias Roden, a lawyer, of Eighth street and Second avenue, who were opposing counsel in a suit before Civil Justice Roosch.

It is not clear what rules governed the contest, but according to the best information obtainable two rounds were fought, Harburger being declared the winner by several hundred references when he landed a stiff right on the solar plexus of his adversary.

First aid to the injured was applied by Drs. Lewis Rosenthal and Myers, after which the contestants were taken before Justice Roosch, who ordered them to shake hands and make up. This the lawyers did, although both declared afterward that the matter was not settled.

The Wadsworths of the Genesee Valley

A Famous Old American Family Distinguished In War, Politics and Agriculture For Several Generations

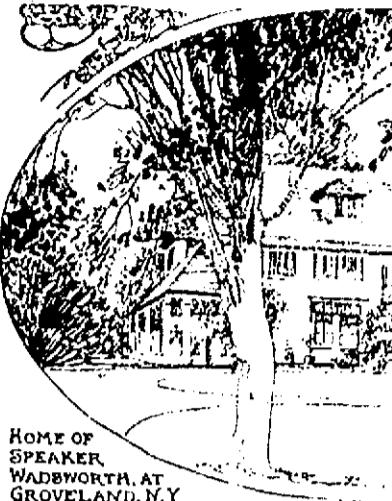

CONGRESSMAN JAMES W. WADSWORTH, who has recently been involved in a disputed controversy over the meat in his own bill with President Lincoln, is the head of a family which is about the nearest approach to the British landed gentry that can be found in republican America. There are several families in the Genesee valley that have made that beautiful section of the Empire State their habitation for more than a century, and among them all the Wadsworths are the oldest and most influential. Their old settlers form a social colony to be considered in exclusiveness and culture with nothing else in the state, even though it were the matched atmosphere of Washington square.

All of the Wadsworths have lived prominently in agriculture, politics and war. The first native born American of the name, James Wadsworth of Durand, Conn., became a member of the committee of safety at the breaking out of the Revolutionary war. When the Declaration of Independence was made public he was a colonel and brigadier general of Connecticut militia, and in the following year he was appointed second major general and was ordered to New Haven to defend the towns along the coast.

This James Wadsworth must have been a man of parts. After peace was signed he became justice of the New Haven county court of common pleas and was a delegate from Connecticut to the congress. When he died, in 1817, he had been a member of the executive council for five years. He was a bachelor, but he had a nephew, another James, who had been graduated from Yale in 1817 and in 1820 had been seized with the western fever and had emigrated to the Genesee river country.

He purchased a large tract of land in what is now the township of Genesee and soon became one of the young Wadsworths was a true blue, richest landed proprietors in the state. But he never practiced his profession.

This second James Wadsworth was a philanthropist. It was one of his requirements that education be devoted himself to agriculture with Wadsworth supported the antislavery cause and was a panacea for social ills of every description. At his personal expense he published and circulated numerous of his life that he obtained wide recognition on the Republican ticket both presidential and legislative.

the Genesee Valley" has remained unquestioned until quite recently. About fourteen months ago there arrived in Albany to take his seat as a member of the Legislature Livingston county, a young man known to his friends as Jimmy Wadsworth. Those friends were residents of the Genesee Valley, where the Wadsworths may be said to "root on."

The old political war horses at the capital could hardly believe that it was "all the old man's doings." He had got ready to launch his youngster, and this was his way of doing it. All he had to do was to say the word, for wasn't he the "boss of the Genesee valley?"

With such an introduction James junior entered Albany. He was but twenty-seven years of age, and besides his unusually attractive physical appearance he had nothing to make him conspicuous. Of course he attracted a certain amount of notice when his relationship became current. Twelve months later he was the most talked of man, young or old, in the state. At the mature age of twenty-eight he emerged into the limelight as the most conspicuous candidate for the speakership, acceptable both to the governor and to the president, and he went in as the youngest speaker ever elected in the state.

Young Wadsworth was graduated from Yale in 1898. Still continuing in the footsteps of his ancestors, he went into the Spanish war, which was just then on hand. The campaign in Porto Rico was not sufficiently realistic to satisfy him and he re-enlisted for service in the Philippines. Here he earned a slight promotion from the ranks, being made civilian orderly, a sort of chief clerk to the general commanding one of the departments of the islands.

It is recorded that he worked faithfully and did his work well. As an enlisted man he had to wear a uniform and could not fraternize with commissioned officers, although superior to most of them in wealth and social standing.

After almost two years of this sort of experience he returned to the Genesee valley and settled down to learn the practical part of farming. When he married Alice Hay, the second daughter of the late secretary of state, his father gave him a farm of 1,000 acres and built on it a handsome house in colonial style. Although there is but one. A volunteer aid to General McClellan at the first battle of Bull Run, he was commended for bravery, made brigadier general and assigned to a command near Washington, afterward becoming military governor of the District of Columbia.

In 1862 he was the Republican candidate for governor of New York but was beaten by Horatio Seymour. He commanded a division at Fredericksburg, and at Gettysburg his division was first to begin the fight. In the battle of the Wilderness he was struck in the head by a bullet and died a few days later. In his "American Conflict" Greeley says of him: "The country's salvation claimed no greater sacrifice than that of James S. Wadsworth of New York."

James Wadsworth, Sr., the member of the lower house who had the rather breezy correspondence with

Mr. Roosevelt over the president's criticism of the committee of which he was chairman, is the youngest son of the hero who fell at the Wilderness fight. He also, although only a boy of sixteen in the fall of 1864, entered the Union army and served until the close of the war. Then he resumed his studies at New Haven and was graduated from Yale. He did not qualify for a profession, but began immediately the management of his father's estate, quite content to devote himself to agriculture for the remainder of his life.

But it was not so to be. He was soon sent to the assembly, then made comptroller of the state and eventually landed in congress, and with the exception of two terms he has continued to represent his district in the lower house for the past twenty-four years.

His proud political title of "boss of the state" is but faint suggestion of the youthful prodigy inspired by young Mr. Wadsworth, there is a good deal that is fascinating about his personality. It won President Roosevelt and Governor Higgins, another of whom is likely to be utterly misinformed in his estimate of a new man.

LIFE OF THE ROUND WORLD IN PICTURE AND STORY

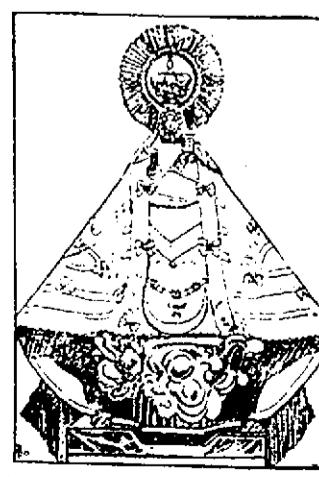

THE LATEST AUTOMOBILE NOVELTY.

The armored motor car gun carriage shown in the cut is a recent Austrian invention which has attracted much attention in military quarters all over the world. The car has two driving axles, which, it is claimed, will enable it to move across country like horse drawn artillery. The chauffeur can conceal himself in an instant by dropping the seat. The gun is mounted at the back of the car and can be trained in all directions.

FAMOUS SPANISH SHRINE.

The Spanish Church of Our Lady of Atocha contains a shrine which is very popular with those who are about to enter matrimony. The wedding gowns of all the Spanish brides for centuries have been taken to that sanctuary and hung for awhile on the image of the Virgin, which is believed to possess miraculous virtue. In accordance with the custom the wedding dress of the new queen was carried to the sacred spot and put on the image.

TRAINED NURSE VISITING SCHOOL CHILDREN AT HOME.

In many of the larger American cities trained nurses are employed to look after the physical welfare of the pupils. Children are not only under the special supervision of these competent assistants while at school, but in some instances are visited at their homes when it is not possible or expedient for them to attend school. The picture shows how cordially one of these expert nurses is welcomed in the congested tenement district of a large city.

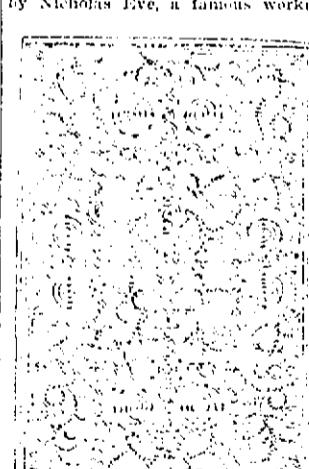

FIRST RAILROAD CAR IN AMERICA.

According to "The History of Marion, Mass." written by Teale, the quaint vehicle herewith illustrated was the first railroad car in the United States in actual service. It was used on the granite railway in 1827. The car had four wheels about eight feet in diameter, and the axle tree was arched in the center to give more space above the ground. The blocks of granite were carried on a

AN ANCIENT GEOGRAPHY.

The book herewith pictured was once the property of Mary, queen of Scots. It is a magnificent copy of Ptolemy's geography. It was bound by Nicholas Eve, a famous workman in leather and has been in the British museum for twenty years, loaned by its owner, who has sold it recently to Quaritch, the noted collector.

MAKING AN EXAMINATION.

In some of the larger cities great attention is now being paid to the physical condition of the pupils. One of the most important steps in this direction is the examination of the eyes of all children applying for entrance, especially in the primary and kindergarten departments. The cut shows a trained nurse making an examination of the eyes of a kindergarten applicant.

A NOVEL METHOD OF AVOIDING SEASICKNESS.

The illustration shows an ingenious apparatus designed by a German to prevent seasickness. It consists of a head banding that is kept damp and maintained at a regular temperature by means of an electric current. This compression is supposed to bring the blood back from the stomach to which it goes in cases of mal de mer to the brain, where it belongs. This restoration of the proper circulation does away with the sickness.

LEARNING HOW TO MAKE PATTERNS.

Many of the public schools of the country, especially in the larger cities, have established facilities for technical instruction in various directions. The cut shows a class of high school girls learning to make patterns. This is only one of the ways in which pupils are taught practically how to make a living while they are still in school.

TWO MEN KILLED

Racing Car Plunged Into a Farm Wagon

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Two chauffeurs were killed, two injured and two escaped unharmed when a new racing car plunged into a loaded farm wagon at Thompson Avenue near the Windham crossing of the Long Island railroad, early on Wednesday last night. The car is said to have been traveling not less than 120 miles an hour.

The men killed are: William Waller, 23 years of age, and Harry Woodward, both of New York.

The men injured are in St. John's hospital in Long Island city are Frederick Wresenbork, and William Brown, who of Marbach. Wresenbork has a fracture of the back and a sprain of the spine. Brown suffered lacerations and abrasions of the face and a badly sprained left wrist.

The names of the other two men were not obtained as they disappeared as soon as possible after the dead and injured had been cared for. The car was a new one which was taken out by Brown to try. It was in racing trim. The other five went along to witness the test. There was no destination, the route being along the Thompson by-pass. It was close to midnight and there was not much chance of meeting vehicles. The farm wagon which was driven toward Manhattan by the two men was loaded with hay from the farm. The car was loaded with gasoline and oil.

The automobile was so fast that it struck the wagon and the two men in the car say that it was traveling at a very high speed. The car flew through the air, flying toward him at 100 feet and when the machine kept straight it would not be jumped. At 100 feet it would have the wagon just too far. He saw it and avoided running into it. He took the two men out of the car and then they rolled into the hay truck behind. The hay crushed the wagon and overturned it's attorney, the produce over the ground. The loss that was had was probably incurred by Woodward and Waller were carried through the air and both landed on their heads and their skulls were crushed in. Woodward was dead when picked up. Waller was alive and an automobile party which came along and stopped for the week, offered to take him to St. John's hospital. The car had been in a few minutes but Waller was dead. Waller was married a few weeks ago. A few days after his marriage his wife's mother died.

A musical program, including members by the Providence cathedral sanctuary choir, was rendered. A big parade of delegates preceded the rally. The parade was one of the best seen in this city for some years. The right of way was given to the Catholic Total Abstinence Union contingent of East Cambridge, which was formerly known as the Pioneer band corps. The paraders looked fine in well fitting uniforms of white and green. They carried flags. A Boston band of 25 pieces did escort duty.

Marching with the archdiocesan Mr. Dennehey, were Rev. Fr. Francis J. Butler, president of the Boston Union; Rev. Michael J. Doyle, president of Cambridgeport; Rev. Dr. Shattuck of Hartford and Rev. John Q. Burkhardt of Andover, Pa.

Following them were carriages containing the national officers of the union and other distinguished men and women, and then the various societies from all parts of New England and the delegates from all parts of the country. Five bands were in line. At yesterday's business session the reports of officers and delegates were made.

The first to report was Rev. Francis J. Butler, pastor of St. Louis church, Dorchester, who, as president, reported that the Boston archdiocesan union had 42 societies, an increase of 10, and a membership of 3200. Since the last national convention, he said, all the old debts of the union were paid off and there is a balance of $200 on hand.

The union recommended to the national union the holding of frequent meetings of its national board, and also that the national officers deal directly with the archdiocesan unions instead of local societies. The adoption of a board of deputies who give reports from individual societies, he said, proved beneficial and he felt that if the official reports of the national officers were delivered more promptly to the archdiocesan unions, much good would result.

Rev. William P. Foley, president of the Springfield, Mass., diocesan union, said that the adoption of the anti-carrying arms act by the Massachusetts legislature had wiped out the grand array of cadet societies, which were so well known at one time. When the act was moderated, he said, it will soon end.

SLANDER CHARGE

MISS MCGOWAN HAS SUED MRS. FAUNCE

LYNN, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Lucia Faunce, wife of George P. Faunce of the shoe manufacturing firm of Faunce & Spilman, has been sued for slander and defamation of character by Miss Mary McGowan, a domestic. The damages are fixed at $100 and the declaration has been filed with the clerk of courts at Salem.

On Tuesday morning Mrs. Faunce, accompanied by her daughter Dorothy, sailed for Europe on the Irving. Miss McGowan alleges that Mrs. Faunce publicly stated on March 26, of this year, that she had stolen groceries from the Faunce home and gave them to a washwoman in payment for laundry work done for herself.

Miss McGowan is represented by Miss Rosenvinge, who, with Mrs. Faunce, are said to be Mrs. Faunce. The suit has created considerable interest in Lynn. Miss McGowan is working in Boston in a hotel, to which place she went shortly after leaving the Faunce home.

BATTLE REFOUGHT

ON THE BANKS OF THE AVON

IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The battle of Antietam "without its mistakes" was fought on the banks of the Avon as part of the manoeuvres of the British army and was won by sheer force of numbers by the side representing the northern army.

No larger force ever had been assembled on the Salisbury plain than appeared yesterday for this sham battle. The umpire was Lieutenant General Ian Hamilton. Thirty-five thousand and troops, composed of regulars and volunteers were engaged. Major General Franklin commanded the northern army and Brigadier General Alenby the southern army. General Franklin's forces outnumbered those under Gen. Allenby two to one. The operations lasted four hours. General Hamilton in delivering the verdict and referring to several errors in tactics which had been made, said that to some extent the operations "whitewashed the memory of General McClellan."

PENNILESSE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 16.—Stephen Deatt, once a lawyer of considerable repute and a man who sat on the judge's bench at St. John's, Quebec, now is sleek and boneless on the hands of charitable strangers and within a few days may be sent to the state almshouse.

He came here several years ago, and since that time has lived in moving wagons, but he soon became ill and a kind-hearted saloon keeper fitted up a room for the man. He cannot be kept much longer, for his sickness has so far developed, it is understood, that he is beyond cure, and it is believed that his life will soon end.

The union recommended to the national union the holding of frequent meetings of its national board, and also that the national officers deal directly with the archdiocesan unions instead of local societies. SMOKE NUISANCE

What a Boston Paper Says About It

The following article on the smoke nuisance is from the Boston Herald and will be of considerable local interest in view of the order introduced by Commissioner Hogan seeking to abate the smoke nuisance in this city.

Early in the year we reviewed a book on railroads, their employees and the public, written by Mr. John E. Miles of Plymouth, an engineer on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. As we wrote at that time, what Mr. Miles says in regard to railroad matters is backed up by long experience. He entered the service of the old colony road as boy, working in the construction department. Later he became assistant baggage master, then a freight and passenger brakeman, transferring from this department to the signal and telegraph corps. He then became a brakeman, and for the last fifteen years has been an engineer on this road with the exception of a brief break when he was employed on the Mexican Central railroad. The point which we wish to touch on at this time is what this railroad engineer has to say of the smoke nuisance. He believes that with proper engineering methods the trouble can be avoided. He shows that the principal cause for dense black smoke issuing from the stacks is that not enough air is admitted to the fire, and that means that all the gases stored in the coal are not utilized, and just as many heat units wasted.

That is a point of interest to the railroad companies as well as to the general public. The latter objects to the nuisance caused by smoke, the former may well complain that they do not get full steaming value out of each ton of fuel. Mr. Miles says that the most noticeable cases of smoke issuing from the stacks are to be found where fresh fuel has been applied to a fire just before the engine has been started off. He explains that owing to the force of the draught caused by the exhaust air is drawn into the fire box on top of the fire to properly consume the gases. "When this draught is lost by the stopping of the exhaust, the fire should be taken by the side of the boiler and opening of the fire box door. This will not only be a saving of heat, but also by consuming the gases otherwise escaping in the form of black smoke, the skill of the engineer will be greatly appreciated by the patrons of the railroad especially at seasons when it is customary to travel with the car windows open." He also gives suggestions as to what should be done when a fire must be started up. He protests against the practice of the heavy firing of an engine when it is backing a train into the terminal, and he shows the waste, futility of firing up just before an engine is shut off. He argues that coal should always be dumped before it is used, both for the better results obtained, and as an insurance against injury to the eyes. Mr. Miles does not believe in the use of coke on railroad locomotives, and he quotes some figures given by a representative of the state board of health in regard to the relative amount of coal fumes to be found in the exit of a coke-burning engine in comparison with one using coal. He believes that with proper firing the advantage is entirely with coal as fuel. He suggests that if the officials of the road took more interest in their fuel bills and in the cost of cleaning stables and terminals, and give added comfort to passengers and residents along the railroad line, in Mr. Miles' opinion the officials take less interest in such matters than one might expect.

In a case which came within his knowledge a locomotive engineer was running an engine that was leaking so badly that he found it a difficult matter to get his train to run. Day after day he reported this trouble, but little or no attention was paid to it, and the conditions grew steadily worse. Finally the engineer went to the official who was responsible for the equipment and explained that owing to the condition of his boiler he was using twice the necessary amount of fuel, and suggested if the coal of coal was used the sooner the repairs were made the better it would be. The reply given to him was: "The coal don't cost you or me anything." Mr. Miles is justified in assuming that such a remark made to an subordinate was but a poor incentive to an employee to look out for his employer's interests. We have always believed that more than one-half the smoke nuisance is preventable if proper precautions are taken. In establishing the furnaces with fuel, black smoke indicator wooden prongs, and though the amount involved may be small in these days when every effort is made to conduct business with due regard to economy and the utilization of everything, there would appear to be justification for the adoption of the most careful and efficient methods of firing, particularly an a double saving can thus be secured through a lower cost for fuel with less damage to property from coal dirt.

MAN DOVE FROM EIGHTY-FOOT MAST.

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 16.—John E. Resentilli, employed as a steward at the Cliff club on Cliff street, lost his life yesterday afternoon in diving into the harbor from the top of an 80-foot pole, used to unload coal from vessels, at the wharf of John S. Martin & Co.

Young Resentilli had been bathing and climbed about half way up the pole and dove off. He landed all right coming to the surface at once. He then announced that he was going to dive from the masthead. It is said that several persons advised him not to attempt it, but he would not listen to them.

Resentilli appeared to turn to the side and struck the water on his stomach. He sank from sight.

He did not come to the surface at once, several boats put out to where he was seen to sink and in a few minutes his body was recovered by Arthur Carey.

Dr. Hill was called and worked over him for nearly an hour, but life was extinct.

Resentilli was a native of Weilburg, Bavaria, where his parents now live, and was about 22 years old. He came here from Brooklyn, N. Y., about three weeks ago. He leaves behind his parents, one sister and two brothers in San Francisco.

PLAYED THE RACES BISHOP DENIES

More About Head of Defunct Chicago Bank

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—In addition to bad paper was put through at noon when the paying teller was sent at lunch. Then Herting would order his cage, take the money and leave, cash up the books. This was repeated on June 28. Herting says that he took $100 from the paying teller's drawer, put the new $100 in, and put on the spindle, thus changing the sum to an invalid "Dutch."

In the case of the money borrowed by Stensland from the bank, Herting said that Stensland had threatened him to make him responsible for forged notes, $100 each, with the names of prominent patrons of the bank. Also at Stensland's direction he cared for these notes and credited them to him from time to time, and was directed by Stensland to keep them carefully away from the eyes of the note teller. In order that the notes should not be sent to the bank patrons, whose names had been forged, juries may be more severe than at first reported.

FAVOR WHITNEY

Many Want Him for Governor

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Henry M. Whitney for governor, John A. Sullivan for lieutenant-governor, and John R. Thayer for chairman of the democratic state convention, is the program that is being widely discussed among the politicians of the regular organization.

The Whitney-Sullivan talk comes, too, from some of the men who are close to Mr. Whitney, and the story is told that Mr. Whitney will consent to make the list at the primaries against Mr. Moran.

Such men as Col. Gaston and Josiah Quincy, who are the acknowledged leaders of the democratic organization, are said to be favorably inclined to Mr. Whitney for first place, although some time ago Col. Douglas was given prominent place upon their list of delegates. Mr. Quincy is now in New York with Col. Brinkwater, while Col. Gaston is in Maine.

Mr. Whitney himself has refused to make any enlightening comment upon the location of his name.

"I have not agreed to become a candidate for the nomination," he said yesterday, when told of the accounts that he intends to run for governor.

But the prediction is made that Mr. Whitney may have something more positive to say before the meeting of the democratic state convention, which takes place at the Revere house on Aug. 17.

Mr. Whitney's great run for lieutenant-governor last year is referred to as making him a formidable candidate for that office. G. G. Gould, while giving the delegates mentioned to run against Mr. Moran in the primaries, one is regarded as stronger, except Congressmen Sullivan, who is talked for second place.

Moran now, however, do not believe that Mr. Whitney could get a majority of the delegates in the fight at the primaries. While they do believe that Mr. Whitney is a candidate for the nomination, they say, that he is not radical enough, as they say, to gain the votes, yet they predict that the fight between Moran and Whitney would be less bitter than between Moran and Sullivan, or Gov. Douglas.

Mr. Moran is said to have rather a personal liking for Mr. Whitney and wants to put him in the democratic convention away from him with a slight shade of respect.

Consequently Thayer, mentioned for chairman of the convention, was chosen in the year when Col. Gaston was chosen. Mr. Thayer would be expected to sound the keynote of the campaign upon the tariff and other issues.

JEWELS STOLEN

WHILE THE COUNTESS WAS IN BATHING.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 10.—A woman known as Countess De Long, of New York city, was robbed of several thousand dollars worth of jewelry and clothing while she was a guest at the Battle Creek Sanatorium, Battle Creek, Mich. "Countess" De Long arrived in Battle Creek last Sunday and was taking baths at the sanatorium. In some manner that has not as yet been discovered her trunk was broken into and the jewels and clothing taken.

The "Countess" did not discover the robbery until late Sunday, and the police have since been working on the case.

Detective Knight suspected that Arthur C. Howard, 17 years old, who was employed at the sanatorium until Sunday noon, knew something of the robbery and locked him up on suspicion. He is said to have confessed and told where a part of the goods were hidden in his boarding house. The rest of the plunder, he says, he gave to his sweetheart.

DUNBAR GIVES DOLLAR. Mr. F. E. Dunbar has sent his dollar along to the republican national congressional committee, as a very practical illustration of approval of the general call for dollar bills recently issued, as affording a method for securing needed campaign funds without the stigma attaching to the old-time "fat-frying" process. Mr. Dunbar's letter was as follows:

Lowell, Aug. 8, 1906.
Republican National Congressional Campaign Committee, Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen—I beg to hand you here, with my subscription of one dollar ($1) to the congressional campaign fund. Yours truly, (Signed) F. E. DUNBAR.

That He Started "Endless Chain" Prayer

CIRCULAR WIDELY CIRCULATED

Statement Given Out by Bishop Lawrence

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—So much anxiety has been caused to the Williston Lawrence, Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts by the flood of letters which has been pouring in for several months regarding the so-called "endless chain" prayer, which was alleged to have been started by him that the bishop has noted it necessary to issue the following denial that he is connected with the matter. "The endless chain prayer," said to have been written by Bishop Lawrence is a hoax. Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts never wrote it and knows nothing about it. It is the work of some demented or malicious person.

The "endless chain" movement was started last May when several
